“Survival Snakes and Ladders”

- ❖ It provides opportunities for teenagers to share their ideas and raise awareness of the possibilities to be engaged in natural disasters and accidents in daily basis.

1. Theme of your proposal

1.1 Who are the targets of your proposal?

Answer:

Teenagers in Thailand.

1.2 What is the problem they are in?

Answer:

In Thailand, teenagers are not familiar with natural disaster drills since there are so few which has happened in the past. However, there are possibilities that it would happen once in a while which these children should be more aware of actions that would have to be taken in real situation. Moreover, most teenagers do not have any idea about accident that might happen even though they are currently living or be able to drive on their own.

1.3 What is the goal for the problem in your proposal?

Answer:

Teenagers in Thailand are more aware of natural disasters and accidents in their daily life.

2. About the concepts and Ideas for solution

2.1 Please explain the direction and concept to solve the problems.

Answer:

By participating in this game, teenagers get to share their ideas about the actions that will be taken in situations. Moreover, teenagers will be more aware of situations that are possible to happen. By imagining one in certain situations would actually help them come up with their own solutions for particular circumstances.

2.2 Please explain about your solution in detail.

Answer:

By spending time in this “Survival Snakes and Ladders”, a board game, participators would encounter situations that they would have to find a way out and share their thoughts to others in order to move on otherwise they would have to turn back on the board. As teenagers participate in this game, there will be time when students open up about their experiences or idea about what they will be doing. This game is particularly created to provide chances for teens to share their experiences. As a result, participators would somehow hear other people thoughts and learn to figure out ways to overcome difficult situations.

2.3 Please explain why did you decide to pick up the idea.

Answer:

As a student, I realize that most Thai students are not aware of any natural disasters. There are particularly two things in my mind when I came up with the idea: car accident and earthquake.

Firstly, when I was very young, I once encountered a car accident with my family. At the time, I did not know what to do. Luckily none of us got injured. After the situation, I realized that I should figure out a way if I get involved with the situation once again. I was totally afraid of such incidents.

Moreover, since I came to Japan, I encounter two earthquakes which was my first time feeling the shake. It happens around ten at night. During that time, my friends and I were working our homework as usual. When it happens, we felt the shake. However, we did not know what we should do so we ended up freezing looking at each other. One of my Thai friends ran from her room to my room which was right next to hers saying "it's earthquake". From the incident, I realize that we need to be more educated about natural disaster.

To conclude, by participating in this game, participants will have opportunities to share and create their own drills.

3. Proposal plan

3.1 Please explain about your proposal in detail.

Survival Snakes and Ladders is a game that provides opportunities for participants to share their ideas and at the same time ask themselves to figure their own way in specific situation.

There are certain procedures in order to play this game. Firstly, a person needs to roll a dice and pick up a challenge card in order to answer the questions about their evacuation plan. If a person cannot answer or share their experience, they have to move backward on the board. In order to win the game, a participant needs to reach the ending position on the board.

3.2 Please explain about how to play the game.

How to play "Survival Snakes and Ladders"

- 1) Select your piece and place it at the place where it says "start".
- 2) The first player rolls the dice and moves the piece forward as the number shown on the dice. The space where the dice moves will show places that situations on Challenge cards will occur.
- 3) The first person picks up a Challenge card from the pile.
- 4) The first person reads the card. (The player shares some similar experiences or tells the first action that would be taken.)
- 5) He or she need to answer the question written on the card regarding the place it means to take place, which is written on the space on the board.
- 6) If a person cannot answer the question, they need to move one step backward.
- 7) If your piece lands in the bottom of the ladder, you can move up to the top of the ladder. However, if your piece lands on the head of a snake, you must move to the bottom of the snake.
- 8) The first person that reaches the "You survive" is the winner.

3.3 Please explain the point you thought and worked out.

“Survival Snakes and Ladders” is a game that aims for teens to share their idea and think about their own ways out in their daily life, which can be enjoyable at the same time. During the game, participators may share their similar experiences or tell the other players what he or she would first be doing in that situation. At least, it provides teens some thoughts that these situations could happen to them. Most accidents and disasters are unexpected and that is the reason I would like to raise teenagers awareness about this incidents.
